

MINERS' STRIKE ENDS-----STRIKE ORDER WITHDRAWN

Mine Workers' Officials Say They Are Americans and Will Obey Court's Orders

Do So Under Protest---Statement to This Effect Issued After Long Session of Officials

J. L. O'SULLIVAN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 11—The call for the strike of bituminous coal miners of the nation will be withdrawn.

"We will comply with the mandate of the court. We do this under protest. We are Americans, we cannot fight the government."

This was the statement issued by Acting President J. L. Lewis at 4:15 P. M. today following an eighteen hour conference with other union leaders at the Lincoln hotel here.

"There is no question about the strike of the coal miners being ended," one of the high officials of the United Mine Workers told the United Press today. "We expect the men to obey. All the power and influence will be brought to bear immediately to get the men to return to work. We expect argument in some quarters but we are confident union members will look at it in the same light we do."

The order of withdrawal was presented to Judge Anderson in Federal court before noon today.

In a voice shaken with emotion Lewis pronounced the words that will end the strike. Lewis plainly showed the strain under which he has been laboring for the past ten days.

When members of the executive council, the scale committee and the district presidents of the United Mine Workers emerged from the meeting room they showed effect of hard fighting. They were sullen and tired. They went to their rooms immediately and all refused to add to Lewis' statement.

The door leading to the conference room was guarded. Opposition had been made by groups of miners who wished to defy the court order.

Through the closed doors could be heard sounds of heated debates.

Attorneys for the unions were called into the conference room several times during the eighteen hour debate. Their advice complying with the judge's ruling had a strong influence on the final decision. No vote was taken at the conclusion of the debate. There were all of one hundred and six men in the conference room who wished to state their views and they were given an opportunity to do so. Lewis merely listened. The decision however was in Lewis' hands. After he heard the opinion of other union officials he said the sentiment was in compliance with the court order.

"We will be placed in the situation of being called 'yellow' if we rescind the strike call order," said the union district president. "If we defy the court we would be anarchists. We are Americans. We will place our country before our union."

Most of the speeches centered on Americanism. It was learned. Many of the men born in foreign countries declared they could not go against the country of their adoption, although they believed the cause was just.

The miners strike was ordered in a call sent out Oct. 15 by national officials who were authorized by a national convention held in Cleveland in July to call a strike if their demands were not met with by the mine operators.

strike call, Oct. 31, 400,000 miners quit work and the coal production was reduced 75 per cent. The entire supply of coal above ground would have been exhausted in three weeks, according to estimates.

The first steps in the court action which brought the withdrawal of the strike was declared by Judge Anderson of the United States district court here on Oct. 31. Judge C. B. Ames, assistant United States attorney general, asked for a temporary restraining order preventing union officials from furthering the strike and from paying strike benefits. The appeal was granted. Judge Anderson last Saturday issued a mandate order demanding the union officials to recall the strike order before 6 P. M. today.

The order follows:
"To the officials and members of the United Mine Workers of America:

"Dear Sirs and Brothers—In obedience to the order in the United States district court, district of Indiana, Judge Albert B. Anderson, presiding, the undersigned hereby advise you that the order directing a cessation of mine operations in the bituminous coal fields of our jurisdiction is withdrawn and cancelled. Signed, Fraternally yours, Wm. G. Green, secretary; John L. Lewis, acting president."

Attorney Warrum told the judge that every effort would be made to get the statement in the mails by 6 P. M. today as provided by the judge's order.

"An honest effort will be considered a good faith compliance with the order," the judge said.

The government, following official ending of the strike of coal miners today took steps to bring about a settlement of the differences resulting in the nation-wide tie-up.

The cabinet decided to call a committee immediately of the miners and operators. It was understood the conference would be held in Washington within the next two days. The government was believed to plan submission of a tentative proposal to the two factions who are to be asked to come to the meeting without "reservations."

The executive council of the United Mine Workers of America submitted to Federal Judge Anderson in Indianapolis the formal withdrawal strike call. Copies were to be mailed to all local unions before 6 P. M. today.

Judge Anderson said he believed the miners officials were acting in good faith.

Report from some districts indicate that miners would promptly return to work.

Capital Waiting Miners' Decision

Washington, Nov. 11—Armistice Day, the anniversary of Germany's surrender, and the end of the fight in the great war, found the national capital waiting tensely to see what the 400,000 striking coal miners would do in response to the annulment of the strike order. If the miners refused to go back to work, there are many here who believed an industrial war would result.

When word reached here that the miners' council had reluctantly obeyed Federal Judge Anderson's order and rescinded the strike call the first question was "What will the miners do?"

Government agents were instructed to watch closely to see whether the men would return to their jobs and whether the reds were making effort to control them.

It was believed some of the miners would refuse to heed the cancellation of the strike order knowing their leaders took the action under protest and that there are "bolsheviks" who are known to be in the coal fields to seize the opportunity to impose their leadership on the miners.

The exact plan of a campaign if the miners ignore the withdrawal order is later to be put into execution. It would demand protection to those miners who want to go back to work, herding trouble makers out of the fields and preserve order. The fact that the union officials have complied with the court order ends the court's responsibility it is held here.

Federal authorities must see to it that civil war does not break out during this most critical period of the strike. Coal supplies are running low and mining regulations must be protected if serious shortage is avoided. The more optimistic officials feel that the miners would not be in a mood to break the records.

Judge Thinks Miners are Acting in Good Faith

The United Mine Workers have complied with the order demanding recall of the strike in "good faith" in the opinion of Judge Anderson. The recall was submitted to the judge shortly before ten o'clock by the attorneys for the miners. After looking over the order the judge said: "I think this is proper and I think this is in good faith in complying with the order."

"That was the contention of the officials," said Warrum, counsel for the miners.

Miners Expect to Negotiate Agreement

Immediate opening of negotiations forming a new wage agreement for the coal miners of the nation is expected by officials of the United Mine Workers of America. Union leaders took this attitude today following withdrawal of the strike order calling 400,000 men to cease work on Nov. 1.

Landis Lambasts
S. C. Pandolfo

Advises Lawyers to be Careful in Dealing With Him to Preserve Their Reputation

Chicago, Nov. 10—Federal Judge
Landis Saturday questioned S. C. Pan-dolfo, head of the Pan Motor company who, with 12 other officials of the corporation are on trial charged with using the mails to defraud regarding his action in employing detectives to watch the jurors in the case.

Did you hire a man named Jones in connection with this case?" asked Judge Landis.

"Yes, your honor," replied Pan-dolfo.

"What did you ask him to do?"

"Many things."

"I want to know what you told him to do."

Pandolfo hesitated so long in making a reply to this question that Judge Landis lost his patience. Turning to the group of lawyers for the defense, Judge Landis said:

"I just want to say to the counsel here that as a result of 15 years' experience I advise them, in dealings with this man, to be careful of their reputations. I don't know where he got his training but be careful."

"There is another thing," Judge Landis said, resuming his examination of Pandolfo, "why was a woman detailed to follow this jury about?"

"I did not know that a woman was to be assigned to the work when I made the arrangement with the detective agency," Pandolfo replied.

CHARGES DETECTIVES
TRAILED PAN JURORS

Woman Admits She Was Hired for
That Purpose, is Report—
Four Subpoenaed

Chicago, Nov. 9—Federal Judge
Landis issued forthwith subpoenas for John Jones and Fred R. Lynch, manager and assistant manager of a detective agency; Attorney John L. Hopkins, counsel for some of the defendants in the Pan Motor trial, and Mrs. Ruth Hambrook.

The subpoenas were issued after Miss Florence Schoenbeck, a private detective, employed by the agency, was said to have admitted she had been employed the last week to follow the jurors.

The prosecution rested Friday after spending more than two weeks introducing evidence. The last witness was Wesley Bennett, Department of Justice accountant, who testified that Pandolfo had received a net sum of $628,513 in his connection with the company. The company sold $6,331-105 worth of stock, he testified.

Seek Release of Two

"The company has paid no dividends and has no funds out of which a dividend could be paid," the witness said. He said that he had considered any contracts which the company might have on its books in compiling his report.

Mr. Bennett said that the automobiles which were sold for an average of about $1,050, has been sold at a loss. The loss on the last lot of 174, he said, was $331 a car.

Claiming that evidence concerning his special clients, George Heidman and Norman A. Street of Chicago, as introduced by the prosecution, was not enough to warrant holding them
further, Attorney Fletcher Dobbins asked that they be released from further hearing and the rest of the afternoon was spent in the arguments concerning these defendants. These arguments were made in the absence of the jury.

Sylvester Rush of the prosecution charged that Street and Heidman helped Weagle and Pandolfo at the very time that "their iniquitous contract providing that half of the money collected should go to Pandolfo" was being formed. "If there has been any fraud in this case it started then," he said.

"There is nothing to show that the plan was to pocket the money and make a get-away. On the contrary they are up there at St. Cloud building up a great plant."

Landis Interrupts

"Did you ever hear of a company turning over 50 per cent of its cash to its president to do as he pleased with?" Judge Landis interrupted later.

"No, I admit it was a novel plan," said Mr. Dobbins.

"Yes, it surely is novel," agreed the judge with the emphasis on the word
"novel."

Later the judge again interrupted
the attorney to say:

"The Consumers Packing company was one of the worst frauds ever brought into this court, and yet they had erected a plant worth $300,000."

"Looks Like Fraud," Judge Says
Again when the attorney mentioned Liberty bonds, the judge said:

"To go to the holder of a security

THOUGHT HIS TIME HAD COME--DISAPPOINTED

"I never was more surprised in my life than when I took the first dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. My stomach trouble had been of eight year's standing, sometimes so bad as to cause convulsions, followed by hemorrhage. I thought my time in this world was short, and believed it the last medicine I would ever take.
It is now eight weeks since, and I am feeling better than for many years."
It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis.
One dose will convince or money re-

WOMAN'S REALM

Clausen-Goulson

A pretty home wedding, quiet, and simplicity itself, took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clausen, 513 North Fourth street, when his sister, Miss Anna Clausen, was married to Gustav H. Goulson, a prosperous farmer of Montevideo, Rev. M. L. Hostager officiating and using the ring service of the Lutheran church.

The ceremony took place at 8:00 o'clock on Monday evening. The bride was gowned in white Georgette crepe trimmed with silk messaline and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Her niece, little Louise Clausen, was the flower girl. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clausen.

The house was decorated with green ferns, white roses and carnations. A luncheon was served, those partaking being relatives and intimate friends. An out of town guest was a sister of the bride, Mrs. O. R. Svore of Alexander, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Goulson left for Montevideo, where they will make their home on the large farm owned by the bridegroom.

Only the Beginning.

"Liberty hath a sharp and double edge fit only to be handled by just and virtuous men," so Milton asserted long ago, adding that "to the bad and dissolute it becomes a mischief unwieldy in their own hands." Even if we Americans can clear ourselves of being "bad and dissolute," we have much to do before we may claim to be "just and virtuous." Justice and virtue are not to be had for the asking; they are the rewards of a manful contest with selfishness and sloth. They are the result of an honest effort to think straight. . . . Merely to feel is only the beginning; what remains is to think and to act.—Brander Matthews.

Putting It Over on Rubber Trust.

The Japanese farmer is independent of the rubber trust, for his overshoes are made of wood and his raincoat is rice straw matting reaching nearly to his knees and raveled for about a foot into fringe. In the old days he could not afford a hat; but now he gets a better price for his crops, so he no longer goes bareheaded. The hat that he buys is a thing of use more than of beauty; the rain slides from it as from a pointed roof, and does not put out the fire in his little "one-puff" pipe.—World Outlook.

Mexico a Mixture of the Ancient and Modern.

Prehistoric Remains Show That the Builders Had a High State of Civilization—Native Tribes and Races Still Exist.

What manner of folk are the Mexicans?

Whatever one's views on the wisest political course toward Mexico, it will help in a thorough understanding of that country to examine the rich history, the ancient civilization, the prehistoric remains to be found among our southern neighbors, says the National Geographic society.

"Of the 16,000,000 inhabitants, two-fifths claim direct descent from ancient tribes or families which are accepted as the basis of Mexican history, two-fifths are of mixed native and foreign blood, the remainder being classed under the common appellation of 'foreign'."

"Throughout much of the country, and often within short distances of railroads, are remnants of some of the ancient native tribes or races, adhering to customs, methods and speech of their ancestors. Thus in Oaxaca are the Zapotecas and Mixtecas, the estimate for the two races being a half million, and a government publication mentions a dozen other families in the same state.

"In Hidalgo and adjacent states, the Otomí; in Puebla and Oaxaca, the Mexicanos; the predominating Mayas in Yucatan; in Michoacan and Jalisco, the Tarascans, and the Tlaxcalans, in their native state, and other groups elsewhere, still maintain the tribal individualities.

"Although Spanish is the language of the country and much English is spoken in the regions most visited, a large number of the natives use only the vernacular.

"Prescott refers to the Aztecs, Tlaxcalans and others as producers of delicate fabrics, colored by vegetable dyes; intricate designs in the precious metals, and beautiful decorations made of feathers; numerous ruins also indicate marvelous skill of ancient peoples in stone-work, especially as the tools used were obsidian or copper.

"Evidence that this deftness in handicraft has been retained appears in the feather-work, wood-carving, stone-cutting, etc., of the present day. The beautiful pottery and unique weaves of serapes, made with the crudest appliances, and excellent fabrication in cast or wrought iron, fill green silver, etc., also bear testimony to the skill of the Mexican Indian.

"Mexico has a wealth of archaeological relics, remnants of an ancient civilization of which no well-defined trace exists. Volumes have been written to demonstrate that the builders of what are now ruins were of Mongolian, Semitic, or Phoenician origin, but the riddle cannot be admitted as solved. All authorities, however, unite in praise of the magnitude and the perfection of workmanship shown at various ruins found throughout the Mexican territory. The region adjacent to some of these raises question as to the source of sustenance for multitudes which must have then existed, and causes speculation upon changes which may have occurred in the interval.

"Prominent among these ruins are Uxmal and Chichen-Itza, in the state of Yucatan; Palenque, in the state of Chiapas; Mitla, in the state of Oaxaca, and Nuchincelo, in the state of Morelos.

"The pyramid of Cholula, in Puebla, and those of the Sun and Moon, in the state of Mexico, have also been liberally described, but distributed over wide areas are many other ruins which have had but little or no investigation, and rock sculptures, images, idols and ancient pottery, found in numerous localities, are the only records of peoples whose history is unknown and whose names even are lost."

WOMAN FALLS DOWN STAIRS; BREAKS NECK

Winona, Minn., Nov. 10.—Pitching head foremost down a steep stairway, breaking her neck and dying instantly was the fate of Mrs. Granville Clark, aged 68, life long and socially prominent resident of Lake City.

Mrs. Clark had visited a dentist's office on Friday afternoon and on her way home stopped at the top of the stairway to converse with a friend who occupied a flat on that floor when she suddenly lost her balance and fell to her death. Mrs. Clark was a widow, her husband having died suddenly on Aug. 11 last. She is survived by three sons, Harry and Roy of Minneapolis and Guy of Des Moines.

USE PLAIN WORDS

Up-to-Date Young People Do Not Apply Soft Pedal.

Ancient Fashion of Vague Allusion to Things Is Passe and All Say What They Mean About Things.

Americans used to come in for a good deal of teasing and "joshing" by Englishmen because of their tendency to show an exaggerated delicacy in their choice of words. Especially was this squeamishness apparent among American women 40 or 50 years ago, when so far from ever speaking of their own legs they actually called the uprights of a square piano limbs and would have blushed with mortification if you had mentioned the chair legs. In England they said that an American woman would never refer to the breast of a chicken, but referred to that portion of the bird as the bosom.

Some who laughed at this overniceness made the comment that people who condemned so many harmless words must have evil minds or they would see no harm in them. But really it did not indicate evil-mindedness. It was just a natural phase of the general oversensitiveness of the time. No wonder that the young woman who was cautioned never to show more than the tip of her toe beneath her voluminous hoopskirts and who couldn't save her life have taken a deep breath—no wonder she was overfastidious in the choice of her words. It was part of the fashion of the time. It really was bad form as manners were then framed to speak with even moderate frankness.

But now the pendulum has swung far in the other direction, and it is the well-bred thing to avoid those circumlocutions used once to soften words of too great realism. It is considered a little old-fashioned or countrified now to say that you are going to retire when you might say simply that you are going to bed. Likewise we speak of bedrooms, whereas our careful grandmothers would never have used so frank a word. They spoke of chambers or sleeping apartments.

Sometime ago it was considered the well-bred thing to use circumlocutions when speaking of death. To a certain extent this is still done, but in general the progressive young American avoids such euphemisms as "pass beyond" and "pass away." People more frequently used to say "if anything should happen to me" or "in case I should be called beyond" when they meant simply "if I should die," which means exactly the same thing just as vividly and has the advantage of being straight Anglo-Saxon.

Old-fashioned folk used to use softened words to indicate poverty. They spoke about being "in reduced circumstances." They would have considered it rude to say a friend was poor, though they might have said that he was a "person of moderate means." If a woman found herself in a position where she had to earn her own living they said that "she had joined the army of toilers," never that she had "gone to work."

People spoke of salaries, remunerations, compensations and honorariums, seldom of wages or pay. They spoke of positions and posts. Nowadays the thoroughly up-to-date young person speaks of her job.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Humbugs in Animal Kingdom.

In military stables horses are known to have pretended to be lame in order to avoid going to a military exercise. A chimpanzee had been fed on cake when sick. After his recovery he often feigned coughing in order to procure dainties.

The cuckoo, as is well known, lays its eggs in another bird's nest, and, to make the deception surer, it takes away one of the other bird's eggs. Animals are conscious of their deceit, as is shown by the fact that they try to act secretly and noiselessly; they show a sense of guilt if detected; they take precautions in advance to avoid discovery; in some cases they manifest regret and repentance, an exchange says. Thus, bees which steal honey often before and after their exploits, as if they feared punishment. A naturalist describes how his monkey committed theft. While he pretended to sleep the animal regarded him with hesitation, and stopped every time his master moved or seemed on the point of awakening.

Fast Growers.

Customer—I should like to know why the potatoes at the bottom of the sack you sold me last week are so much smaller than those at the top.

Green Grocer—Well, mum, potatoes is growin' that fast now that by the time a sackful is dug the last ones is about twice the size of the first.—London Ideas.

Two of A Kind.

"A scientist, eh?"
"Yes."
"What's his specialty?"
"He's trying to find a substitute for gasoline."

"I have an eccentric friend he ought to meet."
"What is your friend working on?"
"Perpetual motion."

Wool Growers Use Press.

Wool ranch proprietors are making use of a small press to put the wool into a compact bale, which cuts down their handling and transportation costs very materially.

ARMISTICE DAY

A year ago today the German guns shot their last bolt in the world war and the era of reconstruction was ushered in.

In the year's period the American overseas army has been quietly demobilized to take up peace-time pursuits. The country is emerging on a period of years of prosperity. In spite of strikes and other industrial misunderstandings between labor and capital, all will be cleared up when the third party, the ultimate consumer or the general public makes its influence felt.

A day of greater democracy is dawning, so that the work so valiantly done by American heroes abroad will not have been done in vain.

A country's treasure will be measured in terms of manhood and womanhood and childhood will be given every opportunity for advancement.

In spite of a coal strike overshadowing the land, the natural ability of America to work out its own salvation will make itself apparent and a settlement will soon be made with justice to all concerned.

It's quiet in Brainerd today, but the thoughts of many are centered on the war a year passed, and in some homes on the brave boys who made the supreme sacrifice there. We have much to be thankful for.

CAUSES FOR DIVORCE

Various causes have been assigned for divorce but the two following are certainly novel ones.

In St. Paul a Lucella Busby alleged that her lord and master never kissed her during the many years of their wedded life. She is 40 and he is 43. Lack of these caresses deemed necessary to her happiness is made the basis for a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Out in Tacoma Mrs. Gertie Graham has sued her husband for non-support. She herself has contributed much to his support, even going so far as to furnish Graham, who returned from the war badly wounded, with a piece of her jawbone for his face and a toe to patch up his foot.

Any time a woman parts with her jawbone she is going the limit of feminine sacrifice. In spite of all of this, after Graham got patched up physically, he refused to support her.

The cases in point simply show that truth is stranger than fiction in detailing instances of marital woe, we almost wrote it martial woe.

THE PROBLEMS THAT CONFRONT US

The problems that confront us are first of all home, not foreign. It will help us little to put the world in apple-pie order if the rough-house is to continue in our family circle. Nor can we hope to solve Europe's problems without the co-operation of Europeans. Whenever one gets in a white heat of sacrifice a cursory glance at the foreign press rather sends one's sympathies back home. Too many men are still under arms in Europe; too many self-determining people are showing a determination to raise disproportionately large standing armies; too many workers are still engaged in the manufacture of war material; too many show a disinclination to go back to work. But unless more of them go into the fields and factories America will be shipping food and materials abroad to enable Europe to maintain her standing armies—a ridiculous climax to a war that was waged to end militarism.—Saturday Evening Post

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

By LIEUT. COL. JOHN McCRAE

In Flanders fields the poppies grow
 Between the crosses, row on row,
 That mark our place; and in the sky
 The larks still bravely singing fly,
 Scarce heard amid the guns below.
 We are the dead. Short days ago
 We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
 Loved and were loved; and now we lie
 In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
 To you, from falling hands, we throw
 The torch. Be yours to hold it high.
 If ye break faith with us who die,
 We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
 In Flanders fields.

AN ANSWER

By C. B. GALBREATH

In Flanders fields the cannon boom
 And fitful flashes light the gloom,
 While up above, like eagles, fly
 The fierce destroyers of the sky;
 With stains the earth wherein you lie
 Is redder than the poppy bloom
 In Flanders fields.

Sleep on, ye brave. The shrieking shell,
 The quaking trench, the startled yell,
 The fury of the battle hell
 Shall wake you not, for all is well,
 Sleep peacefully, for all is well,
 Your flaming torch alight we bear,
 With burning heart an oath we swear
 To keep the faith, to fight it through,
 To crush the foe or sleep with you
 In Flanders fields.

tion is being made of charges preferred against them. All this money, squandered by the so-called public information bureau, was absolutely wasted so far as any benefit to the people is concerned. About $40,000 was spent for "movie" propaganda, but how much went into Creel's pockets will probably never be known. So far as an investigation is concerned it will likely, as usual in such instances, avail nothing.—Princeton Union.

NORTHWEST NEWS

(By United Press)

Minneapolis—Veteran met veteran here today and they were happy.
 While thousands of men who fought in the world war were here to celebrate Armistice day and take part in the organization of the American Legion, honors of the day were not all theirs.
 There were old grey-haired veterans—many of them whose steps faltered—that shared the plaudits of the Twin Cities.
 Veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and Veterans of the Spanish war took a prominent part in the Armistice day celebration. They marched abreast the American Legion in the big parade and the cheers for them were as loud if not louder than for the veterans who are veterans by only a year.

It's a Big Day

Minneapolis, Nov. 11—"Boy, howdy. It's a big day."

This was the spirit of the American Legion organization convention today—anniversary of the day when fighting ceased and the Germans admitted they were "licked."

The legionaries planned to take a day off from their labors and celebrate. Most of them will take part in the tremendous Armistice Day parade arranged by city officials with the co-operation of state officials.

This morning, however, the delegates to the first national convention of the American Legion were recounting war experiences. They were telling each other and everybody else where they were when the fighting ceased.

There were two distinct emotions to be observed on the faces of the delegates. They were—joy and gloom. The boys wearing smiles were the ones who were "over there" and helped to take a last pot-shot at the Germans knowing that the signing of the armistice meant home and mother, or sweetheart, to them.

Those wearing long faces were the ones who hoped the war would last long enough for them to get across and to give them a chance to shoot at something besides targets. While officers of the legion are mostly overseas men there are a great many delegates and visiting members who were among those who did their share in the big argument on this side of the deep.

All the members were eager to take part in the celebration prepared by the Twin City officials and business men. The parade was the big feature of the day with more than 20,000 people participating. Besides the thousands of soldiers in line nearly every civic and fraternal organization was represented.

The parade ended at The Parade opposite the Minneapolis armory where Governor Burnquist, Mayor Meyers and others delivered Armistice Day addresses.

Armistice Day

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 11—"Victory Day—Armistice Day."

Either name or both meant a lot to the average American home today, and a lot to communities of the northwest.

The whole country was thinking a year back to the hour when all firing ceased so far as Americans were concerned in the world war.

It meant that Hunnism was banished and along with it a hope that nothing international will ever again involve Americans in war.

Nearly every city in the northwest was staging a celebration today to show the community spirit. There were parades, mass-meetings, community sings, special church services, dances, banquets and various other means of getting folks together to commemorate the day.

At 11 o'clock this morning—the hour when an order silenced all the American guns—thousands were singing national anthems. In churches, in homes, in business houses, in theaters, on the street—everywhere the hour of song was observed.

Governors of all northwest states had issued proclamations urging observance of the day.

$8,000 LOOT TAKEN IN THREE ROBBERIES

Yeggmen Blow Safe, Escape With $2,500—Fail to Reach $12,000

Minneapolis, Nov. 10—Police are today searching for robbers who early yesterday entered three different places and took money, jewelry and liquors valued at $8,000. The two whistling bandits made their appearance again and escaped after holding up a man in north Minneapolis.

Climbing along the roof of the building next door until they were able to cut the wire netting and force the window of the Witt Market house, 705 and 709 Hennepin Ave., yeggmen blew open the safe in an office and escaped with $2,500 in an open compartment in the safe.

Twelve thousand dollars in a strong box in the safe was abandoned after three unsuccessful attempts of the robbers to open it, according to the police.

Sugar Deadens Sound

The sound of the explosion of the nitroglycerine, which the safeblowers used, was deadened by placing 12 sacks of sugar against the safe and then covering it all with a heavy mattress taken from the woman's rest room of the store.

The work was done by professional yeggmen, the police declare.

Jewels Worth $1,700 Taken

Although there were many persons on the streets hurrying to get out of the rain early yesterday, bandits threw a padded brick through the display window of the White & McNaught jewelry store, 505 Nicollet Ave. and escaped with several trays of diamond and pearl rings valued at $1,700. The loss was fully covered by insurance according to Chas. D. White, senior member of the firm. An automobile was used by the bandits in making their escape, the police said today.

$3,600 in Liquors Stolen

Supposed bootleggers yesterday forced an entrance into the basement of the home of Roy Bullen, 2215 Humboldt Ave. S. and stole liquors valued by Mr. Bullen at $3,600.

When approaching his home at 1217 Fremont Ave. N. early today, Phillip Fedet met two men whistling "You're a Little Devil." They were a trifle off key and Fedet attempted to help them out. When the piece was finished, one of the bandits drew a pistol and told Fedet to throw up his hands. He did and was relieved of $60 in cash.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Park Today and Tomorrow

Demonstrating that poor people are more susceptible to the efforts of Dan Cupid than the wealthy, Mary Pickford, as Amy Burke in "The Hoodlum," which will be seen today and tomorrow at the Park theatre, finds her husband in the tenements instead of the society circle on Riverside Drive where she had been living.

In the tenements, garbed in the rather striking manner of the neighborhood girls, Amy finds that life with its fun, hardships, emotions and sentiment is far more developed among the poor than among her wealthy set.

"William Turner," Amy says to her tenement sweetheart, "three months ago I didn't love anyone but Cleopatra (referring to the cat) but now I love you. I guess it's because love comes easier to poor people. Maybe it's because love is the only luxury that God provides for people who don't know a finger bowl from a cuspidor."

"Mack Sennett Bathing Girls"

The other day George W. Moody of this town and J. J. Tucker of Fort Ripley both saw the reporter and said, almost simultaneously:

"Well, we read the Dispatch every day and all the ads, and we have looked in vain for any criticism or review of those Mack Sennett bathing

"Gee-Whiz! How it Hurts—
—The Pain in My Foot!"

"Sometimes it is in my arm. Merciful Heaven, how my back hurts in the morning!" It's all due to an overabundance of that poison called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Dr. Pierce, which is "keep the kidneys in good order."

"Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anuric." This can be obtained at almost any drug store. Send a bottle of water to the chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive free medical advice as to whether the kidneys are affected. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night, take heed, before too late. Get Anuric (anti-uric-acid), for it will put new life into your kidneys and your entire system. Ask your nearest druggist for it or send Dr. Pierce ten cents for trial package.

girls that were in town Thursday."

"You ought to have at least given the girls a bare mention," said Moody.

The reporter, and the Dispatch man, in order to familiarize himself with every angle of the case, attended one matinee and two evening performances, being seated where no posts intervened to obstruct clear vision.

The show started with "Yankee Doodle in Berlin". This was in several reels and depicted various idiosyncracies of the late lamented kaiser. A particularly moving scene was one where the wife of the kaiser and a daughter were devouring an afternoon lunch which included two loafs of rye bread, several yards of summer sausage and a round of steins of beer. When it came to blowing off the foam, the ladies proved themselves very adept.

After the kaiser's films were displayed, came several yards of the Mack Sennett girls splashing around on the California beaches, combing their hair while balanced on high rocks, diving into swimming pools, playing baseball, etc.

Then came the girls in person.

They were cute little pumps and stockings which reached to the tops of their shoes. Their bathing suits were modelled on the California pattern, which state has a warmer climate than Minnesota. Whereas state law in Minnesota calls for a two-piece bathing suit, California is more economical and is satisfied with a one-piece suit.

From the top of the shoes to the beginning of the bathing suit was a stretch of nether limbs which so far as known faced this November atmosphere without a bit of apparel.

As singers they would not win a medal. As dancers they were no prize winners. So the whole show resolved itself into a display of—well, we must say it—just legs. There were five different styles of these. One was of the slim, toothpick variety which still gains a firm foothold on the ground. Two were short and fat. Two were dimpled at the knees. And that was the whole show which packed the Park twice on a Thursday evening.

THIN PEOPLE NEED MORE IRON IN THE BLOOD

New Form of Liquid Iron Feeds the Tissues through the Blood—Builds Firm Flesh—Fills out the Hollows

Appearances count for a lot in this world, and if you are thin and scrawny and "below weight," you can't help but feel sensitive and envious of your neighbor who is plump and sturdy and who looks well nourished.

But there is another side—thin people are usually sick people. The food they eat does not give them the proper nourishment—or perhaps they are extremely nervous. The blood does not make strength and nerve and flesh as it does in the normal person.

It is a remarkable characteristic of Acid Iron Mineral—the new natural form of soluble iron—that it is a great flesh builder. Thin people who take it find after a short time that the hollows are filling out, that the flesh becomes firm and healthy, that even within so short a space as a single month, a becoming plumpness and soft curved lines of beauty have replaced angles and scrawiness. And with this increased weight comes a better appetite, more refreshing sleep and a marked increase in vigor in every way.

Thin people can take Acid Iron Mineral to improve their appearance, and they will find their health benefited at the same time. Physicians say that this power to build new tissues and firm flesh is due to the extraordinary attraction the blood has for this particular combination of iron.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATED HERE

Stores and Banks Generally Closed at the Noon Hour to Honor the Soldier Heroes

DISTRICT COURT ADJOURNED

World War Veterans Big Dance at Gardner Auditorium in Evening
—Schools Have Program

Brainerd had no set program for Armistice Day. Following the circulation of a petition by the soldiers, stores and banks generally closed at noon.

At the schools programs of a patriotic nature were given setting forth the eventful day in history. The first anniversary found Brainerd more quiet than in 1918 when the first news trickled in at 2:30 in the morning and pandemonium raged from that hour. Shops, schools, stores, everything quit work and celebrated in the streets. The Dispatch got out a half page extra, using up all the large wooden type and kicking out later the issue at 4 A. M. Brainerd, having celebrated November 7 by mistake, was slow to swing into high on November 11 until fully assured the big step had really been taken and the German guns silenced.

In the evening of Armistice Day, 1919, the World War Veterans staged a big dance at Gardner auditorium. The Blue Ribbon orchestra is to play and so many tickets have been sold that the dancers will have to take the floor in relays.

District court, with Judge B. F. Wright presiding, adjourned Monday evening for Armistice Day, sessions to be resumed Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

ACCIDENT AT COURT HOUSE

Supt. A. C. Anderson of Elliott Co., Gives His Version of Accident to Theodore Setula

Supt. C. A. Anderson, superintendent of the Elliott Co., constructing the new court, gave his version of the accident suffered by young Theodore Setula, son of Mike Setula, who had two ribs broken.

The lad was holding a rope attached to a small winch and fell over an iron pin on the floor and broke two ribs. He asserts there was no truth to the statement made that Setula had been struck by the big swinging crane.

The accident is covered by workmen's compensation carried by the contractors and a full report was promptly made by Mr. Anderson.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

According to Schedule Closed Nov. 11, But Returns Still Being Made

The Red Cross roll call, according to schedule closed on November 11, but owing to the fact that outside precincts have been tardy in making returns and the absence from the city of County Chairman Milton Mahlum, it will be continued for a day or two and branches and auxiliaries given an opportunity to cover their territory.

The register in this city has been ably conducted in the downtown districts and by a house-to-house canvass under the direction of Mrs. E. J. Quinn and fairly satisfactory results have been obtained.

City Chairman L. B. Kinder is holding off his report until he can hear from the shops and mills. He states that a liberal response is expected and looks for a good showing when all avenues of the city have been reported in.

The final accounting will be made the latter part of the week and a detailed statement issued by the secretary, covering all monies turned in at headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Injunction Sought by Old Council to Restrain New Corporation from Absorbing its Work

MOTION HEARD IN BRAINERD

Demurrer Argued, Litigation Certified to the State Supreme Court for Final Decision

The case of John G. Morrison, Jr., president of the General Council of the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota for and on behalf of himself as president and all the officers and members of the General Council against Benjamin Caswell, John Broker, Wm. Morrell, Louis R. Caswell, Wm. Potter, John S. Smith, Joseph Goggeye, Frank Pequette, Wah-Ba-Shay Sheence, George Shay Go Bay, David Boyd and James I. Coffee, Defendants came on for hearing Monday morning before Judge McClenahan of the district court, fifteenth judicial district of Minnesota on demurrer filed by the defendants to the plaintiff's bill.

The case started by a bill of equity filed by the plaintiffs in the seventh judicial district at Detroit in which they sought to enjoin the defendants, their agents and representatives from holding themselves out to the public as officers and representatives of the "General Council of the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota," a voluntary society organized in 1913 under a written constitution and by-laws, and since then annually recognized by congress and in conjunction with the secretary of the interior and commissioner of Indian affairs clothed with power to "look after the affairs of the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota." The defendants, who are all members of the Chippewa tribe were in the minority in all tribal matters. They belong to the faction opposed to progress and insist upon continuing the old condition. This disgruntled minority element sought in August, 1919, to establish a General Council of their own by incorporation under the laws of the state of Minnesota. Accordingly, they applied to the secretary of state for incorporation under the identical name of the regular General Council and reciting in their Articles of Incorporation the identical offices and purposes of incorporation enumerated in the constitution and by-laws of the regular organization. The application was granted by the secretary of state and under cover of this incorporation the defendants commenced holding themselves out to the people as the regular General Council of the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota, clothed by law with authority to look after their tribal affairs.

The plaintiffs in their bill of equity set up the above alleged facts and asked for a restraining order, restraining the defendants from using the name of the "General Council of the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota," the seal of the organization, or in any manner holding themselves, their agents or servants out to the public as in anywise connected with the General Council or doing or performing any act or thing in its name. A restraining order was issued by the court and the case set for hearing at Detroit, October 6th. On that day the defendants, through their attorney, E. E. McDonald, of Bemidji, moved to have the case transferred to the fifteenth judicial district in which a majority of the defendants reside. Judge Nye granted the motion and the case came before Judge McClenahan Monday on demurrer filed by the defendants. Judge McClenahan, after argument, overruled the demurrer and certified the case to the Supreme Court at St. Paul for final decision, the injunction against the defendants remaining in force.

The officers of the regular council are making a determined effort to force the federal government to open up to settlement about 3,000,000 acres of lands ceded by the Indians to the United States in trust in 1889 to be sold and disposed of and the proceeds placed in their interest bearing fund in the treasury of the United States. These 3,000,000 acres of land located in Itasca, Becker, Beltrami, Clearwater, Cass and other counties is being held, contrary to treaty, guarantees, and has for 30 years laid idle and unproductive, depriving the Indians of the proceeds of the land, and state and counties of taxes, preventing the establishment of schools, drainage districts and other things necessary to settlement and development.

The defendants want to continue this condition so that their claimed fishing and hunting rights may not be impaired. The case is an important one and will be watched with much interest by the people of Minnesota who want to see the state developed. Webster Ballinger of Washington, D. C., Edward L. Rogers, county attorney of Cass county and Frank D. Beaulieu of White Earth represent the plaintiffs.

NAVY MEN ARE TO RECEIVE MORE PAY

HOUSE COMMITTEE IS AGREED THAT SOME READJUSTMENT IS NECESSARY.

MANY ARE LEAVING SERVICE

Emergency Legislation Is Planned to Continue Shore Quarters Allowance for Officers—They Cannot Now Live Within Their Incomes.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.
Washington.—Increased pay for the officers and personnel of the United States navy is being considered by the house naval affairs committee in extensive hearings. Members of the committee are practically united in the belief that some readjustment of naval pay should be made because of the increased cost of living. Some of the men in the navy are resigning to accept more lucrative civil positions, while thousands who served during the war have been discouraged from continuing in the service permanently because of the small pay. In order to make a just and satisfactory readjustment, Representative Butler, chairman of the committee, has asked the navy department to send before the committee not only high officers stationed in Washington, but officers and men from all branches of the naval service.

The navy has such a complex allowance system, Mr. Butler said, that it is impossible to get an accurate view of just what the men are receiving, from tables submitted by pay corps men here. Legislation will also be considered at the hearings to increase the number of officers in the navy. Evidence has been submitted to several members of the committee that the large reductions made by the house committee in the naval appropriation bill last June have made it necessary to cut the number of officers down to such a figure that not only the fighting efficiency of the navy, but its upkeep, is impaired.

To Continue Shore Quarters Allowance.
The first step of the committee will be in the nature of emergency legislation. The committee will urge the passage before the end of this session of the bill repealing a section of the naval appropriation bill, which discontinued to officers on October 1 computation of shore quarters while they are serving on board ship. This usually amounts to about $30 to $35 a month, and was granted during the war to assist naval officers in providing for their dependents while they were serving at sea.

The bill already has been reported to the house by the naval committee, with the recommendation that it be enacted because war prices still continue. When the bill is passed, Mr. Butler said, it would be made retroactive to October 1, so that the officers will lose none of the allowance. Sentiment in the committee, Mr. Butler and other members indicated, does not favor a flat percentage increase for all officers, but instead a readjustment of the salary scale. An increase of 25 per cent for rear admirals and captains would mean an additional sum of from $1,750 to $2,250, while the officers of lower grades, such as ensigns and lieutenants, would be increased $400 to $500 a year.

The increased cost of living has hit the lower grade officers practically as hard as those with four stripes, and the committee apparently does not favor granting such a large additional amount to the officers of higher grades. Increases that the men of lower grades deserve would increase the salaries of the higher grades to $9,000.

above the amount paid cabinet members, it was pointed out. Mr. Butler also said he favored investigating the pay noncommissioned officers are receiving. Many of them, he said, are in the same position that junior officers are, and have several dependents.

The Case for the Officers.
Here is the way the officers of the navy have briefed their case:

It has been eleven years since any increase in pay has been granted to officers; the cost of living has been gaining by leaps and bounds. As an actual problem in simple arithmetic, a naval officer cannot live within his income. At a recent census, taken throughout the navy, it was found that a large majority went 7 per cent of their salary in debt during the last year. The case of the naval officer is very different from that of the small-salaried man in civilian life. At sea he has a budget of expenses in addition to that of his family.

In addition to the separate expense of the officers at sea, there is another problem civilians do not have to meet—the question of transportation. When ordered from one point to another, the actual fare of the officer himself is paid, but not that of his family nor of his household goods. There is not one branch of the government service in which the employees are not asking for more pay. A commission created by congress more than a year ago will soon be ready to report as to the pay of the men and women employed in the executive departments. Another commission has already recommended an increase for postal employees and a bill giving the workers in that branch of the service more pay is now on its way through congress.

Cleanliness plus convenience plus recreation—are three factors that every happy home must possess. Cleanliness by removing all dirt and dust from the home, no matter where located—in the remote corners or wherever your present cleaning method finds a barrier at every turn. Convenience by banishing forever the broom and antiquated sweeper, the dust pan and cloth, and making it possible to really clean, without exertion or fatigue, simply by touching on the electric current. sheet asphalt, while the floor construction is of wood. Being only semi-dryproof the buildings are equipped with fire escapes and emergency exits and are supplied with an adequate water system.

While the income from them is now keeping pace with the expenditures, the returns are far from adequate to pay interest on the investment. Loss of interest on the investment is only one of the items to be charged on the war budget. Nevertheless it is instructive to know that since the halls became operative in January of this year, revenues and expenditures have about balanced each other; and with the halls now completed and occupied revenues slightly exceed current expenses. It required about 500 employees to operate the halls. The fact that the rooms are continuously filled shows that the halls are needed.

Comfortable Quarters Provided.

Each hall consists of two parallel wings or dormitories, connected at one end by a one-story building, which is divided into a reception lobby, a waiting room, and several small parlors. These smaller rooms can be shut off, if desired, so that if a guest wishes to give a little party she can do so in privacy. All are comfortably furnished. The reception lobby has reading tables supplied with papers and magazines, and the effect, as one enters the hall, is pleasant and inviting. The two wings are three stories high, and combined contain 142 rooms. Most of the rooms are single, but at the end of each corridor are two double rooms larger than the others and having windows on two sides. Altogether about 1,800 guests now occupy the halls in addition to 120-odd employees.

The single rooms are rather small, measuring 10½ by 12 feet. Each is equipped with a single bed, a dresser, a small table, two chairs, a rug, a set basin with hot and cold water, and electric lights. There is a good-sized closet in each, and a cedar utility box which slides under the bed or may be kept out in the room, according to taste. The wallpaper is gray, the furniture is painted green, the hangings are cretonne and the woodwork is finished in white, so that the general effect is restful and cheerful. For ventilation there is one window and a transom over the door. As the occupants can and do use the reception lobbies and parlors for reading, writing and social purposes, the small size of the rooms is not felt as a grievance.

Victories of Every Day.

There are great victories and struggles and noble acts of heroism done every day—in nooks and corners, and in little households, and in men's and women's hearts—any one of which might reconcile the sternest man to such a world, and fill him with belief and hope in it.—Dickens.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

WASHINGTON STILL SHORT OF HOUSES

LONG WAITING LISTS OF APPLICANTS FOR BOTH ROOMS AND RESIDENCES.

RENTALS ARE NOT DECLINING

Description of the Living Quarters Which the Government Erected for Women War Workers—Buildings Temporary but Well Arranged.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The housing shortage in Washington has not diminished perceptibly since the signing of the armistice. There is still a long list of applicants waiting for rooms at the government dormitories. Rental agencies also have long waiting lists. There is no indication of a decline in rents in the district, and real estate prices continue at the same high level. The city is underbuilt, due to a marked cessation of operations for three years. After enacting a measure empowering the Emergency Fleet corporation to construct houses for its workers, congress turned its attention to the housing of industrial workers in munition establishments, and of the civilian employees of the government in the District of Columbia. In the housing bill passed in May, 1918, provision was made for the District of Columbia and an appropriation of $10,000,000 was set aside on June 4, 1918. Work was proceeded with and contracts let for family houses and residence halls for woman war workers.

Inasmuch as the erection of living quarters for woman war workers by the government was looked upon as a temporary expedient, the residence halls were located on government-owned land and within the reach of all street improvements. The sites chosen consist of land which had been set aside and cleared as a public park and which lies between the union station and the capitol.

Halls for Women Workers.

The tract occupies four blocks, two blocks on each side of North Capitol street. There are two principal groups of halls, each being an independent unit with separate dining room. One group is located immediately facing the union station; the other group is in the angle formed by the senate office building and capitol grounds. The two groups are served by a common heating and power plant, a laundry, cold-storage building and an infirmary. The arrangement on the blocks is very compact, but with a considerable amount of interior court space. Considering the temporary character of the buildings, their arrangement cannot be said to be unduly crowded. The buildings are of an exceedingly simple exterior and to secure any degree of attractiveness they will have to rely upon ornamental trees and shrubs. The outside walls are hollow-tile blocks with stuccoed exterior, the roofs are covered with

Taking the Chase Out Of Purchase

Advertising benefits the man who buys as well as the man who sells. It is part of the Golden Rule of Business and it works both ways.

Don't miss the advertisements in this newspaper. Many of them are interesting just because of their news and educational value alone.

But more than that:—Advertisements take the chase out of purchase and make every penny do its full duty.

This last statement is one particularly to be remembered when common-sense economy is not only a national duty, but an individual necessity.
